The power of glass
in the philosophy of Light Thinking

Xilo lamps are a result of cooperation between the LABRA brand and Maciej Karpiak – artist, designer, enthusiast of the latest technology and pro-environmental solutions.

"Xilo is a design challenge for me – combining traditional craftsmanship with advanced digital technology. The uniqueness of each luminaire, comes from combining classic blown glass manufacturing with a modern approach to light that can be controlled within smart home systems."

A handwritten signature in black ink, reading "Maciej Karpiak". The signature is written in a cursive, flowing style with a large initial 'M'.

Xilo is 98% recyclable
or upcyclable materials, from the lamp itself to the original packaging.

The uniqueness of the Xilo lamps is determined by the limits of human capabilities, which are reached by elite glassblowers. The capacity of human lungs combined with traditional craftsmanship, which allows a glass mass of several kilograms to be heated up to 1700°C – this is the secret of each lampshade.

Make it your own – choose the size and colour of the lampshade, the mounting method, add a dimming type and create your own unique composition.

Xilo means Polish design,
Polish production and awareness of how to work with light.

Crystal, coloured glass or opal matt triplex?
Each modifies and diffuses light differently
in a room, giving it a unique character.

Opal matt triplex glass it is specially etched to receive snow-white, satiny touch structure.

When the light is turned on, an opal shade unleash all its power. Frosty white Xilo turns smoothly into a warm, relaxing ombre tone.

Xilo is the essence of Light Thinking – understanding light as an essential ingredient for a better life.

Perfect fit of the individual elements, achieved by the manual process of assembling each piece. The highest quality LEDs and the latest generation of power supplies with the ability to connect to smart home systems. Reduced energy consumption, thanks to features of a luminaire designed and manufactured with care for the environment.

All in line with Light Thinking.
